PREFACE

In compiling this modest family record and having a limited edition printed for private distribution grateful acknowledgment of help is made to my mother, Livermore family and to my wife, Sutliff family, both of whom are mentioned in published genealogies; and to others whose courteous responses to inquiries have been greatly appreciated.

Pains have been taken to make the record accurate. Should errors be discovered the author would appreciate having them pointed out to him. He regrets that it has not been possible to make a more complete record.

THE PREST FAMILY

Although Lower's Patronymica Britannica, on page 276, quotes from "English Surnames and Their Places in the Teutonic Family," by Robert Ferguson, that Prest is the Old Norse Prestr and the Old French Ready, it is believed that the Prest family descended from a Huguenot family that at the time of the Revocation of the Edict of Nantes in the Seventeenth Century (1685), fled from France and located in Yorkshire, England. The family name in France, according to Matthias Mason, is believed to have been spelled La Pree or La Prie, the spelling now being in doubt.

1. EDWARD PRESS (1), the spelling of the name having changed through contact with the English, lived at Linton, near Settle, in Yorkshire, England, and afterwards at Langcliffe, nearby, also in Settle. He was employed in the lead mines where he met with an accident causing his death. Matthias Mason (18), son of Elizabeth Prest (3), while living at Linton, recalled that members of the Press Family to which Edward Press belonged, lived for about one hundred years in an old stone house on the "croft" at Linton. Only ruins of the old house remained when the writer visited there some years ago. Edward Press married Margaret Stephenson. He died January 22, 1813 or 1814, in England, and his wife also died there.

A story is told by a descendant of Edward Press who recalls that when he was a small boy on Christmas Day, 1839, a reunion and dinner was given at Bolton, England, at which twenty-four Presses or Prests were present. It was voted at the reunion to adopt a uniform spelling of the name since which time the name has been spelled Prest.
